

Businesses in development

Lukrum Inc. is a founder-led holding company based in Nashville, Tennessee. Its current work includes software development and planning for future businesses and assets.

SOFTWARE PROJECTS

DentriRev

Healthcare software in development for practice operations, insurance and billing workflows, and reporting.

dentrirev.com

Orbuis

A local-first Mac AI workspace in development for chat, coding, app building and creative work, with optional customer-owned API keys for cloud models.

orbuis.com

FOUNDER-OWNED BUSINESS PLANNED FOR INCLUSION

Reject Compound

A streetwear and accessories brand centered on individuality and belonging. Its storefront currently presents product concepts and is not accepting orders. The brand is personally owned by Gabriel Johnson, who plans to bring it into Lukrum. A completed ownership transfer or subsidiary formation is not represented.

rejectcompound.store

Project names do not establish separate subsidiaries. Current work, planned inclusion and future asset programs are distinguished throughout the portfolio.

Build with measurable progress

Lukrum intends to grow through customer evidence, disciplined spending and documented ownership. Each business needs a clear operating role and milestones appropriate to its stage.

NEAR-TERM WORK

Software and services

Continue validating DentriRev and Orbuis with intended users. LUKRUM Tech services remain a planned route to paid customer work; no contracted revenue is claimed in this overview.

Reject Compound launch preparation

Document the proposed integration and intended seller. Approve a small first collection using physical samples, confirmed supplier mappings and a separate cash budget. Verify payments, orders, shipping, returns and fulfillment before opening sales.

Business economics

Track collected cash, delivery costs, customer outcomes and available capacity by business. Reject Compound has no revenue or expenses added to Lukrum's existing financial forecast by this portfolio update.

LONGER-TERM AREAS

Real estate and company-owned financial assets remain planned areas. Acquisitions, policies, resources and legal structures will be evaluated as Lukrum develops. No current property or stock holdings are presented.

This overview is company information. It does not set investment terms, offer securities for sale or accept investment commitments.

Follow the work

Gabriel Johnson leads Lukrum's company direction and current development work. The portfolio website provides public context; the private portal provides owner-approved access to shared company resources.

Gabriel Johnson

Founder, President & CEO of Lukrum Inc.

STAY CONNECTED

Public portfolio

Explore the software projects, Reject Compound's planned inclusion and clearly labeled future areas.

lukrum.io/portfolio

Investor relations

Contact the founder about company direction, current work and resources available to approved members.

lukrum.io/investors

Private investor portal

Verified users can request owner-approved access to published updates, project briefings, shared documents and direct messages.

lukrum.io/portal

General inquiries: hello@lukrum.io

Investor relations: investors@lukrum.io

Founder: gabriel@lukrum.io

Portal access grants no ownership. Any future offering requires its applicable terms, disclosures, eligibility requirements and authorized process. Plans and availability may change.